A Saskatchewan farm boy whose bird-shooting skills would serve him well later in battle, he joined the RCAF and at 20 years old was leading the 260 Squadron over more senior officers. Edwards racked up victories in North Africa, Italy, France and Germany, and by war's end he was a decorated wing commander, legendary for his victories and his irrepressible personality. It flew over 39,000 sorties over enemy territory, towed gliders, dropped agents, carried cargo, and pioneered electronic warfare. After the war, the aircraft was almost forgotten, most were melted down. But it was not forgotten by the men who flew the Halifax. This film recounts the whole story of this aircraft from design to her final conversion as a post-war airliner. Using never seen before footage of the Halifax in action, it tells the story of how the initial problems of design were conquered. In all 6,178 were built. Today only three remain, and this film tells the incredible story of how the Halifax Aircraft Association, rescued NA337 from the depths of a Norwegian Lake, and have restored her as a tribute all those who flew and fought in the Halifax."
